Natural Style Pattern

Your natural style is the way you tend to behave when you aren't thinking about it. This is where you are most comfortable (natural), also the style you will revert back to when under stress or moving too quickly to be consciously thinking about modifying your behavior.

Adaptive Style Pattern

This is the style of behavior you adapt to when you are conscious of your own behavior, when you feel you are being observed or whenever you are trying to better fit a situation. In other words, it is the way you feel you "should" behave when thinking about it.

Activity 1- Project-teams building

Share your results with your current project-team members and engage in a fun discussion about the results. You may use any of these questions as conversation starters.

- Did you find anyone who's the same or opposite of you and work very well?

- What did you learn about yourself or about each other?

- Do you find your team balanced?

- Based on what you learned, what can you do to collaborate and communicate more effectively?

Polls on project-teams' results

Who's polling? - One person on their team's behalf

How balanced is your team?
1. We are all the same
2. We are pretty balanced
3. We are all different

Each team gets two votes. Vote for the top two dimensions for your team.
1. D
2. I
3. S
4. C

3. All Clutch Polls

Who's polling? - Each person for themselves

Based on your individual results, which leadership style do you closely compare to?

1. CD Style - Reformer
2. D Style - Director
3. DI Style - Motivator
4. I Style - Inspirer
5. IS Style - Helper
6. S Style - Supporter
7. SC Style - Coordinator
8. C Style - Observer
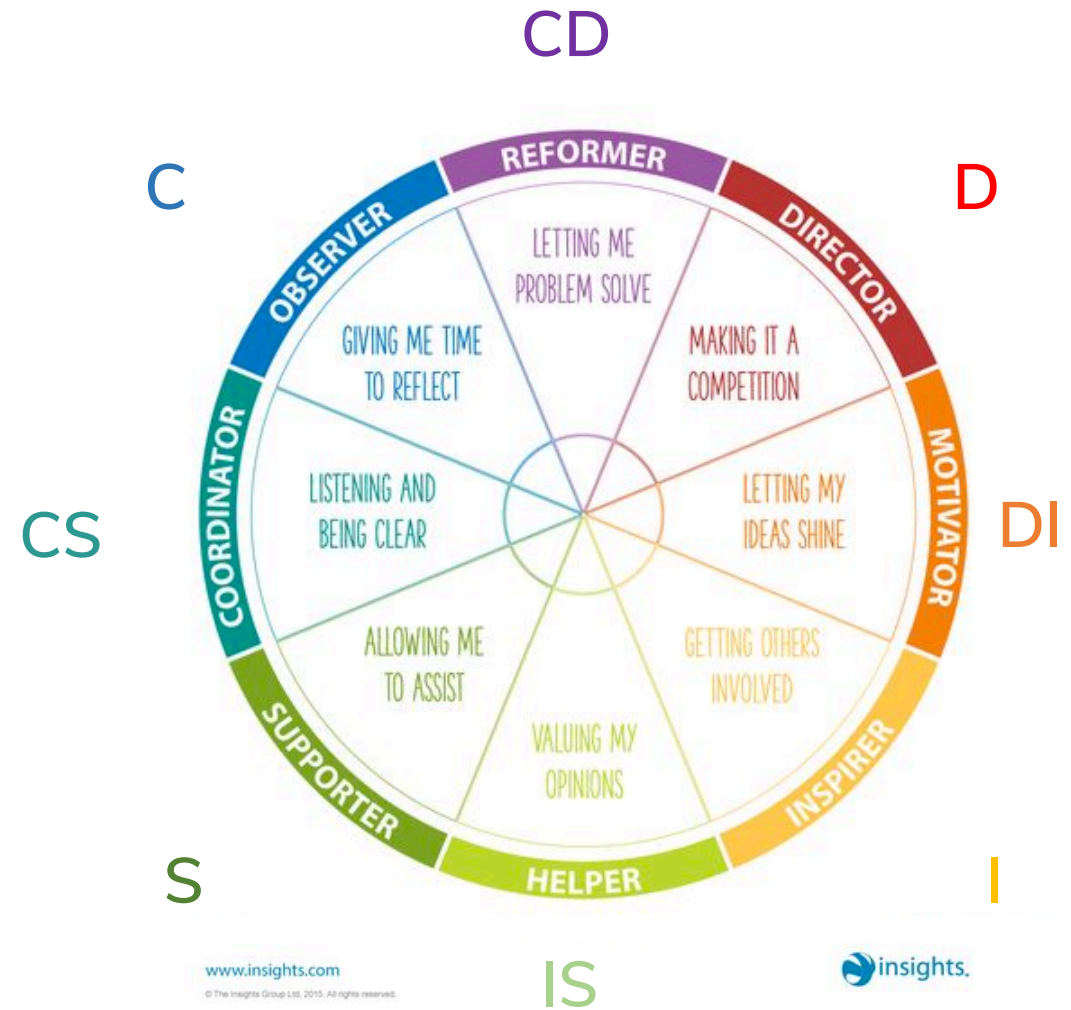

Activity 2:
Group into similar leadership styles

What are the top three things we should know about working with you?

Pick someone to poll on group's behalf. Always add your leadership style as a prefix and try to keep the three bullets in a single message when texting.
